Steph: Hey everyone, welcome to Modern Photo Solutions. I'm Steph Clay, and I'm happy to be with you here today. It is spring break in my neck of the woods, and the weather is absolutely beautiful. So beautiful here in Arizona. I hope that you are enjoying some great weather where you are too. Besides being spring break and great weather, or because it is, I'm going to be taking some time off and not recording a full episode today. I'm heading to do some fun things with my family while my kids are out of school, so that will be fun. But, I have also been working so hard on the Android version of the Heart of Photo Fabulous class. I'm excited to say that the recording is all done, but two lessons. I think there's 53 lessons in it, or something like that. Guys, I am so close. I can't wait to be done. I'm so excited to be able to get this class in the hands of Android users.

If you follow me on Instagram at all, you probably saw me complaining a little bit about how hard Android has been for me, and my frustrations. I even mentioned it on the last show, but I feel like I kind of had an Android breakthrough. I feel like I cracked the code, I figure a lot of hacks, and work arounds out, and I'm really excited about everything that I've been able to figure out how to do on the Android device. I can't wait to share it with you, because I've seen a lot of people posting issues that I've been able to figure out, and figure out hacks for. I can't wait for you guys to be able to get a hold of this class.

I'm hoping that it will go up for sell right at the end of March, possibly into the first part of April. We'll see. I gotta calendar everything out, and figure out for sure what I'm going to do. My hope is to do it at the end of March. My daughter comes home first week of April, super, super excited about that. I would like to have everything wrapped up before she comes home, so that once she's home I can just spend time with her, and not have to worry about anything. I'll have all of the new students onboarded, and working on stuff in the class, and I can enjoy time with her, and just jump in the Facebook group for the class once a day.

I do have exclusive Facebook groups for each of the classes, and the Android version will be a separate Facebook group from the iPhone version. That way there won't be any confusion when people ask questions. I'll know exactly which platform you're on, and how to answer your questions. Everybody else in that Facebook group will be on the same platform as you as well, and they can help out and answer your questions too. When this class, the Android version of this class goes up for sell, enrollment will open again for the Heart of Photo Fabulous for Apple IOS. I've had a lot of people email, a lot of people that are on the wait list. I will be emailing the wait list to let them know first, and then everyone on the email list will hear about it next. Probably in very short order after that.

How do you get on the wait list? You have to make sure that you've signed up for Photo Fabulous First Step. If you've signed up for that class, whether you've finished it, whether you've done anything with it or not, you're on my email list and you will be notified about these classes. You're on the email list unless you unsubscribed. I would think if you unsubscribed, maybe you're not listening to the podcast. I wouldn't think that someone listening to the podcast would have unsubscribed from the email list, but you never know.

If you did, jump back on it. You can sign up for the class again, I think in all of the emails there might be a link where you can resubscribe. I don't know for sure. Pay attention to those emails coming through if you're interested in this class, and hopefully we'll have it up in the next couple of weeks. I can't wait. Thank you everyone for being here, thank you so much for being part of what I'm doing. I'm hearing so many success stories with Google Photos, and with what people are learning in the classes. In both of the classes, Heart of Photo Fabulous, and Photo Fabulous First Step. It's exciting to me, it's very rewarding to me to hear that it's making a difference for all of you that are feeling overwhelmed with your photos. Stay tuned, we'll see you next time on Modern Photo Solutions.
